

Public Libraries Create!

Connect With Your
Local Creative Community

With the help of the Creator tool from BiblioLabs, your library can help put unique digital content in the hands of your patrons. Partner with local cultural organizations, artists, schools and more to curate multimedia collections that can be made available to patrons via BiblioBoard's unlimited multi-user access platform.

Whether you want to curate the history of your library or get the work of local musicians in front of your patrons, the Creator tool is here to help. This easy-to-use curation tool allows your content to be accessed on the web or any mobile device. Share local history, special collections, archives and more with your patrons using BiblioBoard Library or with the world via BiblioBoard's Public Access Collections.

JIM MCSHANE
Rapid City Public Library

“BiblioBoard affords us the unique opportunity to modernize and mobilize our Black Hills Knowledge Network digital collections, bringing to light the rich cultural heritage in the Black Hills while attracting new mobile patrons. At the same time, all of us—from Rapid City to Deadwood and Sturgis to Spearfish—can now focus on engagement, curating and publishing the most important artifacts of our shared history while relying on BiblioBoard to keep in step with technology and the elevated user experience our patrons now demand.”
